

Stay Of Execution Granted In Another Case And Justice's Confusion In Names Secures Twenty Day Reprieve For Condemned Man At The Ohio Penitentiary

COLUMBUS, Dec. 20.—Joseph C. Kane, Youngstown murderer gets to live twenty days longer than the courts decreed because Norman S. Kendall, Cleveland theatre proprietor, was not yet ready to pay a fine of $100 for alleged violation of the child labor laws.

Kane was to have been executed at the state penitentiary early this morning, but because of Kendall's activities in obtaining a stay of execution on his $100 fine from the state supreme court, Kane gets to live until January 8.

Justice Harry L. Conn of the Supreme court was entertaining company in his home last night, when during a lull in conversation, he picked up a local newspaper and read how Kane was to be executed shortly after midnight. The story mentioned that the supreme court recently had refused to review Kane's case and therefore, his execution would be carried out.

Judge Conn did not recall having participated in passing upon Kane's case. He became uneasy lest there may have been some mistake. He called one of his associates, Justice Robinson and conferred with him about the matter. Justice Robinson said he did not recall having participated in any Kane case.

Justice Conn then became convinced in his own mind, he said today, that there must have been a mistake of some sort made—that the supreme court surely had not passed upon the Kane case. He at once called Chief Justice Marshall and asked him if the court had passed upon Kane's case.

"Yes, we passed upon the case, but I allowed a stay of execution this afternoon on application of Kane's attorney for a new trial," Chief Justice Marshall said he told Justice Conn.

The chief justice said he was certain there must have been a mix-up of some sort and that the stay order never had been delivered to the clerk or warden Thomas at the penitentiary. He had Justice Conn call Clerk Seba H. Miller at once about the matter with orders to report back to him immediately.

The hour of midnight was fast approaching and something would have to be done quickly if Kane were not to be executed. His only recourse was Governor Donahy. He immediately got Governor Donahy on the telephone and explained the situation to him, that he had issued a stay of execution, but the stay never had been served upon the warden or filed with the clerk.

Considering the situation hurriedly, it was concluded that the only method to stop the execution would be for Governor Donahy to grant a reprieve. This Governor Donahy did and carried the reprieve personally to Warden Thomas at the penitentiary shortly before midnight.

The Governor's reprieve was recognized by Warden Thomas, and by reason of it Kane gets to live until January 8.

Chief Justice Marshall began an investigation of the mixup immediately upon his arrival at his office this morning. He found that the stay of execution which he had signed and which gave Kane twenty more days to live was not a stay for Kane, but for Norman Kendall, proprietor of the Nona Theatre in Cleveland, who was not satisfied that he had been given justice in being sentenced to pay a fine of $100 for alleged violation of the child labor law in employing a girl as an actress who did not have a schooling certificate. The supreme court last Tuesday had refused to review Kendall's case, and his attorney's had asked for a rehearing and stay of execution which the chief justice had granted.

Chief Justice Marshall explained this morning that he had become confused in the names Kendall and Kane and that when Justice Conn called his attention to the Kane case, he at once came to the conclusion that it was in Kane's case that he had granted the stay. He said he was in a hurry when Kendall's attorney presented their matter and had his arms full of bundles ready to start home when they approached him.

He said he was glad the error had been made in favor of Kane instead of an error that would have sent him to the electric chair before time for him to go.

He explained that Kane's attorney had made no request for a stay of execution of his sentence.

Kane was convicted of killing Paul Prolog, aged 8, by kicking him in the head after he had attacked the boy.

Neither Justice Conn nor Robinson had participated in the hearing on the motion of Kane's attorney for a review of his case, which other judges of the court had refused.

Mrs. Thomas, wife of the warden, took the message to the condemned man, who even then was in the (Continued On Page Seven)

CIVIL WAR RAGES IN RUSSIA BETWEEN TROTSKY'S FORCES AND ZINOVIEV TROOPS

BERLIN, December 20.—(By the United Press)—Red troops supporting Leon Trotsky, mutinied at Moscow and from M. Stalin, secretary general of the Communist party, imprisoning him in their barracks, according to a dispatch to the Berliner Zeitung Am Mittag from its Bucharest correspondent who quotes Odessa reports.

The troops, the report said, were ordered by Soviet circulars branding Trotsky as a traitor.

Premier Rykov went to the barracks and sought unsuccessfully to obtain Stalin's release, which was agreed to only upon condition that Stalin resign the secretaryship of the Communist party.

Legal troops, according to the report, then stormed the barracks and many were killed in the fighting that ensued.

Two generals are reported to have come out publicly for Trotsky while the latter's supporters seized and occupied public buildings in many parts of Russia. It is reported that supporters of Trotsky in Kasaan over-ruled backers of Zinoviev.

The dispatch concludes:

"It is believed that in other cities the rivalry between Trotsky and Zinoviev has assumed the character of civil war."

The Russian embassy at Berlin, handed the report as "propaganda and lies, over which we sling our shoulders."

Renew Controversy of Whether Congress Or the President Shall Conduct Foreign Affairs of U. S.

WASHINGTON, December 20.—The same old story—shall Congress or the Executive conduct the foreign relations of the United States—has cropped out anew.

Having offended Japan by restrictive legislation last summer, Congress is again the scene of debate, the effect of which it is anticipated will not help relations between Washington and Tokyo, and may, on the other hand, make even more difficult the already great burden on the President and Secretary of State in keeping official intercourse with Japan on a friendly basis.

It all started through the clamor for a larger navy, but it was intensified by the isolated action of Representative Britton, of Illinois, Republican, a ranking member of the naval committee, who asked the House of Representatives to adopt a resolution authorizing the President to call on the United Nations bordering on the Pacific to confer on defensive measures.

Hunt Bandits For Sacking Texas Town

FT. WORTH, TEXAS, December 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Law forces through Texas and Oklahoma combined efforts today in a search for Otto Star, notorious Oklahoma outlaw whose bandit gang is believed responsible for the sacking yesterday of the town of Valley View, 55 miles north of Ft. Worth. The bandits left the two village banks pillaged and burned and entire a conflagration which razed the entire town town section.

Officials of the bank estimated their cash loss alone at $100,000. A property loss of approximately $120,000 was also caused by the fire.

Taxicab War Rages In Cincinnati--No Fare--Just Donate

CINCINNATI, O., December 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Independent taxicab owners did a thriving business today after the hour had arrived when all passengers riding in independently owned cabs were given service free of charge, but with a suggestion that a small contribution would be appreciated. It was the first step in the taxicab rate war and followed a meeting last night of the Independent Taxi Owners' Association.

The independents are seeking an ordinance providing for a uniform taxicab rate. Representatives of organized companies said last night that their rates were as low as was consistent with good business and that they would not increase or reduce their charge per mile.

Independent owners said they would continue their "no charge" service in order to force a show-down with the organized companies.

Paris Hears Of Red Revolt On Christmas Eve

PARIS, December 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Rumors of plans for a "red revolution" on the eve of Christmas have been rife for the last few days. The authorities are not so much concerned over the alleged plotting as the spreading of such rumors and the perpetration of police promises of rigorous prosecution with expulsion for foreigners of those found guilty of insensate plotting.

Some of the stories have gone into great detail about the alleged plans for the French, stating that the communists had secured the adherence to the cause of the drivers of the tanks attached to the Paris garrison.

The opposition press also continues to sound warnings of communists' activities. La Liberté and others print accounts of an elaborate plot for the seizure of Amiens by the local Communists, supposed to have been discovered by the police. Despatches from Amiens state that the city is as calm as usual and that the Communists, who are a small body there, are surprised, not to say gratified, by the importance attached to them.

There is, however, a growing practice among the Communists of starting meetings outside the factories when the men are leaving in the evening. Prefect Morin has sent a circular letter to the police chiefs reminding them that while all citizens have the right to meet they are not permitted to block the public highways with meetings.

Gompers Wills Bulk of His Estate To His Children

WASHINGTON, December 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The will of Samuel Gompers filed today for probate left the bulk of his estate to his sons and his grand-daughters and directed that only "the minimum amount allowed by law" should be paid the widow.

Dated November 8, 1924, the will was accompanied by a mutilated copy of another, made previously, which had been torn across the face and on which was "cancel and revoke this will."

Under the cancelled will, which had been executed September 21, 1921, the labor leader, after providing for a number of specific bequests, left the bulk of the estate to his widow, Gertrude A. Gompers, to whom he was married April 16, 1921.

The last will declared the payments allowed under the law should be made providing Mrs. Gompers "in my lawful, should she not be, it is directed, 'She shall not receive any part of my estate, whether real, personal or mixed.'"

Mrs. Gompers was Mrs. Gertrude Nusscher, of New York, and at the time of her marriage her age was given as 28. She was his second wife. Under the laws of the District of Columbia, dower rights of a widow may not be taken away by a will.

The remainder of the estate, the value of which was not given, was bequeathed to his grand-daughters, Henriette and Henry Mitchell, and his sons, Samuel J. Henry J., and Alexander J. Gompers in equal shares. Samuel J. Gompers was named as executor.

Postoffice Robbed; Xmas Mail Stolen

CANTON, O., December 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The post office at Hillsboro, a village in Carroll county, was broken into some time Friday night and $40 in silver and all of the parcel post packages in the office stolen. Some merchandise in a general store operated in the same building was included in the loot. No attempt was made to open the safe in the post office, Elmer Hawls, postmaster, reported.

Forty Million In Bonuses

NEW YORK, December 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Christmas bonuses amounting to $40,000,000 are being distributed by Wall Street firms. It is estimated by a member of one of the largest firms in the street, H. H. Sells, an admittedly conservative estimate, that the bonuses are as high as $75,000,000. Office boy, clerk, senior partner, all will share.

Smith of the U. S. Court of Customs Appeals has held in favor of Dr. Ford. The case has been in the courts for six years.

Newton D. Baker May Resign As Democratic Chm.

CLEVELAND, O., December 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Newton D. Baker, chairman of the Democratic county executive committee for thirteen years, is contemplating resigning, according to authoritative information in circulation here. Mr. Baker, it is understood, desires to devote himself entirely to his law practice.

(The former secretary of war refused to affirm or deny the reports.)

It is not Mr. Baker's intention to sever connection with Democratic politics other than to step down from the management of the party in this county. Should he resign he will continue to take an active part even to the extent of making political speeches, his friends declare.

Mr. Baker has been chairman of the committee since the death of Mayor Tom L. Johnson in 1911, when he filled the vacancy not only of the mayorship, but of the chairmanship of the committee.

Middlewest Hard Hit, Sub-Zero Weather Prevails

(BY UNITED PRESS)
At least nineteen persons were killed as a result of the sub-zero weather centering over the middlewest, according to data obtainable today.

Four were killed in Milwaukee, three in Oklahoma, two in St. Louis, two in Chicago, two in Detroit, one near Kansas City, Mo., one in Kansas, four in Michigan.

The deaths were due to fires from overheated stoves, falls, traffic accidents and exhaustion from cold.

The Polar weather should lift from this territory within the next 36 hours, the weather bureau stated.

In the meantime, the middlewest is struggling with the gigantic task of clearing up the tangle of broken telegraph and telephone wires and poles sprawling over the countryside, disrupting communication and slowing up railroad and interurban service. Where snow and sleet-covered rails do not slow down service to a snail's pace, lack of wire facilities forces extreme caution.

The storm has shifted to Ohio where the temperature dropped 40 degrees during the night. Zero weather is in prospect. More than 800 wire poles are down, disrupting communication.

Nearly all of Illinois, with the exception of the northern portion, is practically isolated. Limited service is obtainable in St. Louis and other southeastern Missouri points.

Several thousand persons are stranded in St. Louis because of slow train service. Trains are running from 8 to 12 hours late. Nearly all trains from the west are hours late, according to rail road dispatches in Chicago.

Property damage will run into 2 or 3 millions of dollars, it was estimated.

Polar Wave Hits Ohio

COLUMBUS, O., December 20.—(By the United Press)—A Polar blast sweeping out of the northwest struck Ohio today.

Snow storms, propelled by high winds, are in immediate prospect. Temperatures dropped as much as 40 degrees during the night in many parts of the state, the United States Weather Bureau here predicting zero before night.

Traction lines and trains were behind schedule.

More than 800 telephone and trolley poles were blown down in the state. Dayton, Toledo and other Ohio cities were cut off from Cleveland. Repair crews worked feverishly throughout the night, restoring communication.

Cold Wave May Continue Over Xmas

WASHINGTON, December 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Further reports reaching the weather bureau today confirmed the government forecasters in their belief that the cold wave now taking hold of the east is likely to remain unbroken for several days. Whether it will extend over Christmas cannot be foretold.

Over most of the section east of the Mississippi the prospect is for fair weather, but rain and snow is expected in the South Atlantic and East Gulf states and a "white Christmas" is possible in sections of the south that have not seen one in years.

Freezing temperatures are expected tonight as far south as Northern Florida and tomorrow night as far as Central Florida.

ST. LOUIS, MO., December 20.—(By the United Press)—Two persons are dead here as a result of the storm which virtually isolated Missouri and Southern Illinois from the rest of the nation.

More than 500 thousand travelers are stranded here waiting for outgoing trains.

One of the persons killed was frozen to death while a boy burned in his home when it caught on fire from an over-heated stove.

Dedicate Tabernacle Tomorrow

Dedication of the big tabernacle erected by the First Baptist church membership on Gallia street will take place Sunday morning at the close of the Sunday School hour. The closing exercises of the Bible School will mark the dedication of the structure erected for a six weeks' revival to be opened January 11 by Evangelist Baxter F. McCord.

The great Men's Bazaar Class of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow morning at nine o'clock in the tabernacle, the lesson to be taught by the pastor, H. Stewart Phillips. Following the close of the lesson hour the entire school will march from the church to the tabernacle for the exercises that will mark the dedication.

Plans have also been made to hold the evening preaching services in the new building, these services to start at 7:30. The big building is to be dedicated by the pastor, H. Stewart Phillips, and the entire school will march from the church to the tabernacle for the exercises that will mark the dedication.

Fire Damages Purdy Home

Fire supposed to have started from a defective fire caused considerable damage to the roof and attic of the Purdy home in the Flatwoods neighborhood back of Lucasville Friday afternoon. When the fire was discovered by a neighbor the pupils from the Flatwoods school nearby were summoned and the pupils with aid of nearby farmers formed a bucket brigade that fought the flames successfully. Three rooms on the second floor were damaged by fire and water.

Mrs. Purdy was in Portsmouth and Mr. Purdy in Lucasville at the time of the fire. A son, William Purdy, was in a nearby field when the fire was discovered by James Ratcliff, a neighbor.

The Valley Township fire truck made the run, but the fire was extinguished before its arrival. Mr. Purdy owns the property.

Seek New Trial For Adkins

The verdict of the jury in the Jason Adkins case yesterday afternoon, finding the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree, without a recommendation of mercy, for aiding and abetting in the killing of Edward D. Funk, New Boston oil station owner, who was shot to death by Lenzy Traylor when attempting to perpetrate a robbery on the night of October 21, was freely discussed throughout the city last night.

The verdict was a victory for Prosecutor S. Anselm Skelton and his assistant, Attorney Edgar G. Miller, who throughout the trial contended that Adkins was equally guilty with Lenzy Traylor in committing the crime, insisting that it was Adkins who planned the robbery and really was responsible for the cold-blooded murder, and which caused them to ask the death penalty at the hands of the jury in both cases.

Nineteen separate reasons are advanced in a motion filed Saturday by Attorneys Blair and Blair seeking a new trial for Adkins.

The motion in full follows:

"Now comes the defendant, Jason Adkins, and moves the Court to vacate, set aside and hold for naught the verdict of the jury returned against him and grant him a new trial herein for the reasons following, to-wit:

First. The Court erred in overruling the motion of the defendant made before the trial began, to grant him a change of venue from Scioto County to some other county in Ohio, as is authorized by law.

Second. The Court erred in overruling challenges for cause of defendant to persons summoned and examined as jurors and accepted by the Court.

Third. The Court erred in making statements in the presence of the jury to which the defendant at the time, excepted.

Fourth. The Court erred in accepting and permitting in its charge to the jury, the objection of this defendant, persons who were disqualified under the laws of the State of Ohio.

Fifth. The Court erred in permitting and accepting over the objection of this defendant, persons to sit as jurors who had formed, expressed and then had an opinion as to the guilt of this defendant, and the punishment that should be inflicted.

Sixth. The Court erred in permitting testimony of the state to go to the jury, to which this defendant excepted.

Seventh. The Court erred in refusing to tender and offer to the jury this defendant.

Eighth. The Court erred in making statements prejudicial to the rights of this defendant in the presence of the jury, during the trial of the case, to which this defendant excepted.

Ninth. Misconduct of counsel for the state in argument to the jury.

Tenth. The Court erred in refusing to give special instructions of law requested by the defendant in writing, to the jury.

Eleventh. The Court erred in modifying, changing and adding to certain special instructions in writing requested by this defendant to be given to the jury.

Twelfth. The Court erred in refusing to give to the jury, before argument, special instructions in writing, requested by this defendant.

Thirteenth. The Court erred in its instructions to the jury.

Fourteenth. The Court erred in failing to instruct the jury as to all the issues in the case.

Fifteenth. The verdict of the jury against the manifest weight of the evidence in the case.

Sixteenth. The verdict is against the law of the case.

Seventeenth. The jury that tried the case was not a fair and impartial jury, as appears from the record in the case.

Eighteenth. The Court erred in overruling the motion of the defendant for a change of venue after the jury had been examined and before it was sworn.

Nineteenth. The Court erred in permitting and accepting jurors as triers of the cause who had read the signed confession of this defendant and Lindsey Traylor, jointly charged with him, and the evidence in the trial of Lindsey Traylor, jointly charged with him, and the evidence published in the newspapers in Scioto County, Ohio, and thereafter discussed the guilt or innocence of this defendant, and the punishment that should be inflicted with other citizens, and who had formed and expressed an opinion both as to his guilt and the punishment that should be inflicted.

Twentieth. Other errors apparent of record."

JASON ADKINS
BY BLAIR AND BLAIR
His Attorneys.

Judge Blair made a brilliant fight for his client throughout the long trial, and his eloquent plea to the jury, directed in the main in opposition to capital punishment, was the subject of much favorable comment among those who heard his speech, which was one of his best efforts. It was regarded by many as one of the greatest pleas ever heard in the local court room, the scene of many brilliant and hard-fought legal battles between giants of the legal fraternity.

The jury, after deliberating a little more than five hours, turned their verdict into court shortly before three o'clock yesterday afternoon and the prisoner, who had displayed no sign of emotion throughout the long trial, was on the verge of a collapse when he was brought into court to hear the fateful words which may seal his doom.

Judge Thomas, as customary, inquired of the jury: "Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?" and Foreman William N. Gableman answered in the affirmative. The paper was passed to Deputy Clerk Blanche Mickelthwait, and as the deputy, in a clear voice, read: "We, the jury, in this case, duly impeached and sworn, find the defendant, Jason Adkins, guilty of murder in the first degree, as charged in the second count of the indictment," the defendant turned pale and gazed intently towards the spectators grouped on the west side of the room, as though seeking some friendly face. Adkins did not utter a word or sound, but appeared somewhat dazed and did not even recog-size his two brothers who were seated directly behind him. His wife and children and other relatives were not present.

The solemn, death-like silence which prevailed in the courtroom during the reading of the verdict was only broken when Judge Thomas from the bench took occasion to thank the jurors for their service, though it may be a painful and disagreeable one, he said, and then dismissed them.

In contrast to the distressed condition of Adkins, his wife, Lenzy Traylor, who is awaiting sentence to the electric chair, appears in a better frame of mind. He has embraced religion and appears more cheerful, spending a great deal of his time reading the Bible, indicating a desire to prepare to meet his Maker. The young man seems to be resigned to his fate and takes with him a few articles and eats heartily of his meals.

Machines Collide; Two Hurt

PIKETON, O., Dec. 20.—Kelly Durham, of Waverly, and a couple from Columbus, figured in an automobile accident at Sargent, five miles south of here about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, when a Ford touring car, driven by Dunham and a Dodge Coupe, driven by the Columbus man, collided at the place where the road from Shively, joins the Scioto Trail.

Dunham was coming down the hill on the Shively road toward Sargent and was attempting to make the turn to the left, heading toward Portsmouth, when he collided with the Dodge Coupe, which was going north on the Scioto Trail. Dunham was rendered unconscious by the force of the collision, and received a number of minor cuts and bruises. He was carried into Ben's Place, where he soon regained consciousness. The woman in the Dodge Coupe suffered a dislocated shoulder. The man driving the Dodge was not injured. Dr. I. P. Seiler, of Piketon, was called to the scene of the accident and attended to the injured people, both machines were badly damaged, and were taken to Waverly by Seiler's wreckers, where they will be repaired. The man and woman were taken to Chillicothe by DeLoe Agent B. E. Hastings, who passed the scene of the accident shortly after it happened.

Body of Youth Found Near Waverly On November 1 Is Identified By Father

After being held in the Leist and Davis funeral parlor at Beaver for 49 days, the body of a young man found along the C. & O. tracks, near Gregg's Hill, south of Waverly, November 1, was identified late Friday by William Carnahan, of Racine, O., as that of his son, Albert M. Carnahan, 18 years old, who left his home October 20, the day he disappeared from the community instead of going to school.

Carnahan identified the body immediately, and made his identification positive when he claimed that the clothes found on the body. Among the clothes was a heavy sweater with a letter "R" the youth had won by participation in high school athletics at Racine.

The body was badly mangled under the wheels of a C. & O. freight from which the boy is thought to have fallen. A train crew found the remains several hours later.

Considerable credit is due Coroner Dan J. Wilson, of Pike county, for the efforts he made in attempting to find the parents of the youth. While hundreds suggested burial of the body, the coroner held firm that he would locate the parents. He was ably assisted by the undertakers in his plan to locate the parents. A number of letters were sent out to high school superintendents in charge of schools whose name started with an "R". One of these letters reached the right spot when it was delivered to the superintendent of the Racine high school, ten miles up the Ohio river from Portsmouth.

The teacher told the letter to the parents of the missing student and finally the father was induced to make his trip to Beaver. Before he was shown the corpse, he described the body perfectly. The father arrived at Beaver at 6 o'clock Friday and a short time later made plans to have the body returned home.

According to the father, the boy was a Junior in the high school and was a member of a dialke for school, the parents being at a loss to understand why he would run away. On October 30 the parents received a letter he had mailed in Ashland.

It is estimated that close to 1000 persons called at the Leist and Davis funeral parlor to view the body and among this number were hundreds of relatives of missing young men.

Sedan Institute Is Big Success

The annual Farmers' Institute for the Sedan and Mt. Joy communities held at the Sedan Baptist church came to a close with the afternoon session today. Election of officers, and a decision on next year's institute brought the two-day meeting to a close.

County Farm Agent Roger M. Thomas and former County Agent Walter F. Gahn, of this city, were in attendance at the sessions today. Mr. Thomas spoke of Club Work in the county and how these organizations of young people are keeping the boys and girls interested in the farm. Wheeler J. Wadley, of Jefferson county, spoke of the out of town speakers and for his topic this afternoon was "Farming, A Business." Mr. Gahn reading the discussion non this subject. Mr. Thomas Pierce, of Hamilton county, the other out of town speaker had for her afternoon topic "Today Tomorrow."

Saturday morning P. S. Alley, of Lucasville, who has had considerable experience in the next morning, spoke on "Feeding the Chick," after Mr. Wadley had spoken on "Poultry For Profit." Mrs. Albert Dodds led the discussion on "The Top Bureau Drawer," an interesting talk by Mrs. Pierce this morning.

Last night's session of the Sedan Institute was opened with the presentation of a program of songs and recitations, participated in by children of the community. Several Christmas carols were sung by the audience. At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Thomas Pierce made an interesting talk on "The Community Spirit." Mrs. Pierce emphasized the necessity of harmony in religious, educational and industrial pursuits for the attainment of the highest type of Agricultural community.

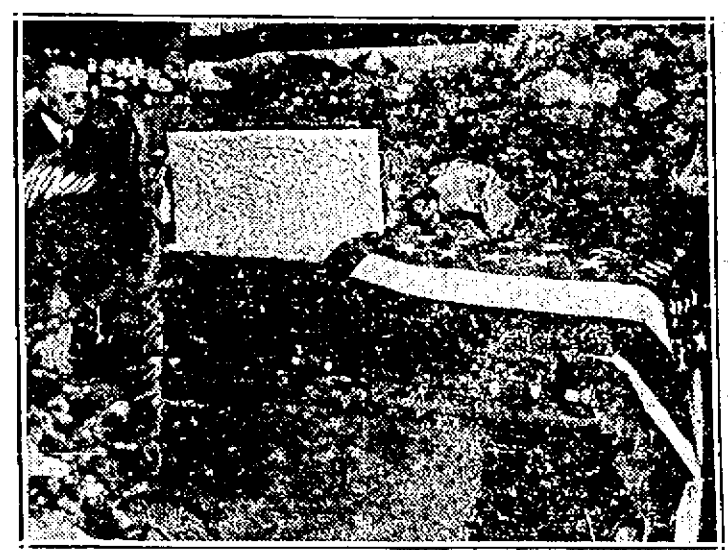

Proceeding the talk by Mrs. Pierce, Wheeler J. Wadley spoke on the subject "The Cap Sheaf."

Amoy's Department of State

Mr. Britten's idea doesn't represent the sentiment of Congress, but when the Japanese explanation is not always made of the exact importance of each resolution. Coming as it does at the same time that the clamor is for a larger navy and when the American navy is planning maneuvers in the Pacific, the Britten resolution appears the Department of State to the extreme.

The President has just started a campaign of denial through the press, saying that the Jingles would be squelched. But he had hardly finished that when the resolution to hold up a conference of the nations, bordering on the Pacific was launched at the chambers of Commerce of Pacific coast states and representatives in Congress from the coast.

Several of the Pacific coast members, including Chairman Johnson, of Washington, of the House Immigration Committee, are insisting that the Britten resolution is unwise and that it does not represent the true sentiment of the people of the United States who live in the Pacific States coast region.

Hughes Breaks Precedent

But some of the damage has been done and the Executive branch of the Government realizes it so much that Secretary Hughes broke a precedent in the last 24 hours by commenting officially on the appointment by Japan of a new ambassador. He took occasion to speak in complimentary terms of the new envoy and Japan knows that his purpose was to allay any ill feeling that might have been caused by the recent anti-Japanese resolutions and the implications of the talk about a greater navy.

The Executive Branch of the Government feels that if the two governments are left alone and public opinion is not inflamed by unwarranted incidents or provocative action in the legislatures of either country the relations between Japan and the United States will be improved and the war ultimately will be fought on a more equitable basis.

Meanwhile, the American government is endeavoring to do all in its power to convince the Japanese people that there is no hostility on this side of the Pacific. Although Washington cannot influence the states, it would be most gratifying to the administration here if some demonstration of friendship came from the Pacific coast people to offset the impression conveyed by the Britten resolution which purported to represent Pacific coast opinion.

Stay

"Last night" call above the electric chair. Calmly, almost nonchalantly, Kane received the news. "That's fine," he said. "Quite a relief."

There was no emotion in his voice.

"Yes, it's quite a relief. While there's life, there's hope, you know."

Leaning on the wire mesh that encloses the "death block" in the annex at the Ohio penitentiary, Joseph O. Kane, 21, Youngstown, talked easily and freely today of the peculiar chain of circumstances which saved him from the electric chair last night, at least until January 8th.

He was convicted of killing Paul Prologue, aged eight, Kane's execution was fixed for last midnight.

"I hope they don't pull any more jokes like that," Kane said between puffs of a cigarette. "That's a fine joke, making a man up at his own funeral."

"His 'buddy' Joseph Prymas, Cleveland murderer, who occupies the same cell with him, stopped a methodic pacing of the corridor to interject that 'every one makes mistakes.'"

"Of course," Kane continued, "I am thankful that I get to spend Christmas and New Year's here, who wouldn't be. But if I have to go, well, it might as well have been last night as January 8th."

"But, say, my life's worth more than $100. That's all that guy that got mixed up with me, was fined, wasn't it?"

Kane said he and Prymas "talked the thing over" last night but went to bed almost right away. He slept well, he said. "I don't lose any sleep or any eat," he said. "If there's two guys in here that can sleep any harder than me and my pal, I want to see them."

"Well, merry Christmas, Kane," the condemned man was told.

"Same to you," he replied, adding, "and many of them."

One other case in the history of the penitentiary parallels that of Kane. Paul Chiavaro, of Akron, was executed November 1, 1918, and Warden Thomas read in the newspapers the next day that the court of appeals had granted a new trial in the case, but that the papers had never been served on him.

After Chiavaro's name in the big "execution book" at the penitentiary is this parenthetical note: "Granted new trial by the court of appeals according to the newspapers."

OBITUARY

Peter S. Revare

Peter S. Revare, one of the city's best known and most highly regarded citizens, died at his home, 1006 Fourth street, at 11:40 o'clock Friday evening. His death was not unexpected by loved ones and friends as he had been critically ill since Tuesday, when he suffered the second stroke of paralysis, which ultimately ended in his death.

He had been in poor health for many months, but he was able to look after his business until stricken Tuesday, faithfully remaining at his post until the fatal attack.

Mr. Revare would have been 73 years old had he lived until May 23 next. Before forming the New System Carpet Cleaning company he was for years engaged in the baking business in Portsmouth. In addition to his faithful wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Blankmeyer Revare, he leaves three sons, Albert, at home; Harry, of Fifth street, and Paul, of Baird avenue. Three brothers and two sisters, also survive: Frank, Henry and Ben and Mrs. James Kirby and Miss Louise Revare of this city. Mr. Revare had led a long and useful life and was prepared for the final summons. He had ever been a dutiful husband and an indulgent father and in his passing the city is bereft of another of its progressive, honorable, home loving citizens. He possessed a wonderful capacity for work and the night was never too dark nor cold for him to assist those less fortunate than he. He always remained young by associating with younger men than himself and until fatally stricken, maintained the buoyancy that had been one of his predominant traits throughout his life. He valued friendship and held it sacred.

He was ever genial, companionable and his friends, by reason of these attributes were legion. They will be saddened by the removal of this good, trustworthy citizen, who always derived much pleasure by the advancement of a city he loved so well. In a fraternal way, Mr. Revare had long been a member of Magnolia Lodge K. of P.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home at 10:30 a. m. Monday and the last rites will be in charge of the Rev. W. H. Phelps, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church. Interment will be in Greenlawn.

Mrs. Margaret Lougher

Mrs. Margaret Lougher, 80, died at her home Tuesday, Dec. 16, of indigestion. Seven children survive: George, John, Ann, Josephine, Sister Antislita, Frank and Andrew. The funeral was held at St. Peter and Paul's church Friday morning, Rev. Father J. T. Bannan officiating. Interment in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

ERNEST EYON MONK

Ernest Eyon Monk, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Monk, 1121 Front street, died yesterday evening at 6:30 after a week's illness with pneumonia. The lad, a pupil in the first grade of the bond street school, was popular in the neighborhood in which he lived, being a general favorite with his playmates, to whom news of his death comes with great sorrow.

Surviving are the parents and eight brothers and sisters: Mrs. Mildred Schweinsberg, Mabel Monk, Mrs. Margaret Blair, Mary and Marie Monk, Charles and Fredy Monk, and Erma Monk.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the residence, with Rev. Gerald Culbertson in charge.

SHELL RIMS POPULAR

CONSTANTINOPLE — Shell-rimmed glasses, long popular in America and Europe, are just becoming the mode in Turkey. Their great popularity as a personal adornment has led many people, whose eyesight really is not defective to wear them, optics say. Many are wearing shell rims without glass.

RING IN OVERALLS

PARIS — "King of Umbungia" has appeared in the streets of Paris in overalls. He is selling patent medicines from an automobile truck, with a monkey as his only companion. He advertises himself as "the monarch of the long forgotten civilization of Umbungia, where the world begins and ends." Geographers say they cannot locate Umbungia on any known map, however.

Greenup Postoffice Robbed

GREENUP, Ky., Dec. 20.—A few dollars in change was the loot obtained by safe blowers last night when they blew the small iron safe in the postoffice here with a heavy charge of explosive. Stamps and other valuables are kept in a bank when the postoffice was visited by safe-blowers a couple of months ago. Entrance was gained last night by forcing the front door.

This is the second safe robbery in this village within the week. Several other days ago the safe in the C. & O. station here was carried from the office to a bigger room, but no explosive was needed in that case. The heavy door swinging open when an attempt was made to place the explosive.

Wood May Have Not Cleaned Up

Huge Fortune On Wall Street; Wife Soon To Sue For Divorce

PHILADELPHIA, December 20.—(By The United Press.)—Lucky in Wall Street, unlucky at love, Osborne C. Wood, son of the governor general of the Philippines who came into prominence through his amazingly successful speculations conducted by cable from Manila a year ago, is to be sued for divorce by his wife, the latter confirmed today.

Moreover, in a statement not tinged with a little bitterness, Mrs. Wood said her young husband who is at present in France, "is not a success financially and she even intimated she didn't believe he recently had 'cleared up $2,000,000' in the bull market, because he had called her to send him $18,000."

"Of course, I did not do it," she added.

Mrs. Wood, who is at her father's home in Greenville, Delaware, said she and her husband had been separated for several months and "I shall start suit for divorce, I do not know where yet, nor do I know on what grounds."

The couple were married in Manila April 2, 1922, and have two children, both boys. The youngest child was born November 20, 1923.

Mrs. Wood, daughter of Henry R. Thompson, wealthy retired manufacturer, met young Wood in Manila, while the latter was stationed in the Philippines as aide to his father, General Leonard Wood, who was governor general of the islands.

After his marriage Wood began "playing" the stock market and recently reports were circulated that his marital affairs were not as successful as his financial ones.

Mrs. Wood intimated that her husband's speculations were not as successful as reported from time to time. "I am tired of the widespread impression that my husband is worth a fortune," she said, "only about two weeks ago he called me for an immense sum of money."

"As for the sums he has made in the past, I am too poor to figure. To remember, the exact amount of his winning at various times. But it is a wrong impression to regard him as a man of wealth. So far as I know he has lost practically all he made."

ABOLISH CURR LAMPS

HAMBURG, GERMANY — Curr lamps have been abolished from many of the outlying districts of Hamburg. Things on transgression light habitually knock out the lights with rocks, thus resulting in a great expense to the city. An expense which the present administration has determined to eliminate.

DOG LOST IN STORM

STOCKHOLM — "King Fritz II." the monarch of Scandinavia dogs, met his death in a storm when he went to the rescue of a dog who had become lost in the forest. Three months ago King Fritz was sold for the highest price ever paid for a dog in Europe.

MINIATURE TOWN

LONDON — A miniature town of more than 150 buildings was constructed and placed on the stage of a local theatre simply to be burned down. This event was arranged by a fire insurance company to show how flames may be spread over an entire community, leaving destruction in their wake.

DON'T LIKE GRAY

BERLIN — Hermann Gratz doesn't like gray in his potatoes. When the waiter brought him "spuds" inundated in gray, he struck the servant on the chin and knocked him down. Other customers in the restaurant enjoyed a hearty laugh when the proprietor came on to Gratz and apologized for having put gray on the potatoes.

CARS FOR DOCTORS

CONSTANTINOPLE — Constantinople physicians must own their own automobiles, a new ordinance has decreed. Horse-drawn cabs do not possess sufficient speed to carry doctors to their patients, it has been pointed out. Licenses will now be granted to physicians who do not possess cabs.

POETS IN FIGHT

PARIS — A battle royal between long-haired poets in the Latin quarter at Paris has attracted much attention here. An argument started over the "theory" of poetry in midnight, rife and was continued in wholesale fashion in the street outside. All sorts of weapons were used—fists, finger-pulls, feet and even knives.

Portsmouth Coca Cola Co. Will Erect Branch Plant In Jackson; Site Is Purchased

JACKSON, O., Dec. 20.—An important real estate deal was closed here when the real lot on Portsmouth street, on what was formerly the property of the old Valley House, the front on Pearl street was sold to the Standard Oil company.

The firm has an oil station there. It was formerly owned by Mrs. Lincoln Dever, and through Harry Johnson was sold this week to the Coca Cola company of Portsmouth, R. V. Amersing closing the deal. A branch of the Portsmouth works will be built before early spring with a capacity of 600 cases of Coca Cola a day. The building will be a two story, brick and steel construction 40 by 80, and will employ about ten men.

JACKSON

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Aten, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kessinger, Mr. and Mrs. John Anders, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Riegle and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson spent Friday in Wellston in attendance at the funeral services of their relative, Mrs. Maude Gettles Wyckoff, who was shot by her husband, Roy Wyckoff on Wednesday evening, Rev. Rutherford, of the U. D. Church conducted the last rites and burial was in the Wellston cemetery.

REMUS AND OTHER PEN PRISONERS ARE HELD IN JAIL

ATLANTA, Ga., December 20.—(By The Associated Press.)—Headed by George E. Remus, known as "King of the Bootleggers," five Atlanta federal penitentiary prisoners today were held in the Little Charlie county jail, Athens, Ga., for "isolation" purposes, pending further developments in the government's investigation of the United States prison.

The six convicts were described as being among the witnesses that testified before the federal grand jury, which yesterday returned indictments charging solicitation and acceptance of bribes to A. E. Sarantini and L. J. Fletcher, formerly warden and deputy warden, respectively, of the prison. Arriving in Athens last night, the prisoners were rushed to the Clarke county court house, where Sheriff Jackson "checked" them in for the jail. The men dined at a restaurant before going behind the bars. W. H. Thair, Savannah; C. Graham Beach, New York; C. E. Toomey, Savannah; Emanuel Koss, Atlanta; and one known as "Gotham's millionaire bootlegger," and Morris Sweetwood, also of New York, were the other prisoners besides Remus, sent to Athens.

Alleging prisoners had been threatened and other "unworthy" procedures employed by government officials to obtain information in connection with the investigation, counsel for Sarantini and Fletcher issued a statement in which they suggested higher officials should inquire into "these methods and administer proper discipline."

Fletcher who with Sarantini is at liberty on bond awaiting trial on January 5, expressed the opinion Remus and the other prisoners were sent to Athens because "it was feared they would suffer violence at the hands of other inmates if returned to the penitentiary."

For a Farm Loan

See Your Banker

WHEN you obtain a mortgage loan on your farm property, there are other points to consider besides getting the actual cash. Some of these points are: The time-limit of the loan, how fast it pays itself off, the interest, the incidental fees, how long it takes for you to receive the money you want and—above all—the safeguards which the loan provides for your own protection.

All these questions are answered to your entire satisfaction, and to your advantage, when you place your farm mortgage through this bank.

Through our co-operative arrangement with the Ohio-Pennsylvania Joint Stock Land Bank of Cleveland, Ohio, we are in a position to grant farm loans promptly, for thirty-three year periods, at six per cent interest. These loans never mature—they automatically pay themselves off. They are negotiated under strict Federal supervision. They may be paid off any time at your option.

They are recommended to you, by this bank, as the safest, simplest, and fairest type of farm mortgage loan obtainable anywhere.

We shall be glad to have you write—or better still, drop in—for complete information, which you may study at your leisure.

P. H. S. BOYS BEAT WEST HI 20 TO 10; GIRLS SMOTHER RUSSELL HI

By annexing a double bill the Portsmouth high school basketball team demonstrated to a big throng of fans Friday night that the Red and Blue will be represented on the hardwood court this year by two fast squads who will make every opponent extend themselves to run up any good-sized score. The local girls did not have any trouble in winning from Russell (Ky.) high, 33 to 21, while the Red and Blue boys won from the strong West Hi of Columbus, 20 to 10.

The contests, staged by the boys proved a real battle, with P. H. S. having the edge on defense and offensive playing. The visitors tried hard and never let down a minute, but they found the pace set by the locals a fast one that was hard to match. The five-man defense style of play was used by both teams, with the locals producing an attack that carried the ball through many times, although scores did not always reflect the majority of points were scored during the periods when the visiting defense was open, local players taking the ball all the way down the floor and shooting. The West high offensive on the other hand found it hard to get through the P. H. S. defense and several of the baskets registered were the result of well-aimed long shots.

The teams fought on even terms for several minutes before a score was registered. West high was the first to count, Magley center for the visitors, dropping the sphere through the hoop and net when the ball was fed to him as he stood near the basket. A foul by Columbus gave Goss a chance to toss a free throw and he made it good. The first quarter ended with Columbus leading, 4 to 3. Donahue shooting the one field basket registered by P. H. S. After the brief rest the locals opened up on the scoring, Monk taking the last from the jump-off and tossing it in for a field goal. Sommers shot the next one and then Monk capped another making the score 9 to 4 before the hoop and net when the ball was fed to him as he stood near the basket. P. H. S. leading, 11 to 5, at the end of the first two periods.

From then on it was simply a matter of holding the lead. West high scored first in the second half, but Sommers soon matched the two points with a field goal. The third quarter ended, 13 to 5. In the last period the locals registered 7 points, while Columbus scored two points. The P. H. S. boys showed a world of teamwork, passing the sphere with considerable accuracy and speed and shooting in a manner that showed they had practiced faithfully. Coach Van Orsdale has developed a fighting machine that should have a most successful season. Everyone of the lads is a fighter, Monk leading the attack. Goss at guard is in every play and as fast as they move them. Captain Doh worked at center last night in place of Hefner, while Sommers went in at guard in place of Duduit.

For the losers Columbus at left forward proved the best. He was fast and a sure shot. He shared, scoring honors with Magley, each registering five points. In the curtain-raiser Captain Thelma Dohms and her lassies enjoyed a splendid practice session, with Russell in endeavoring to furnish opposition. The local girls showed the fans they had not been wasting time in practicing basketball and team work producing basket on top of basket. The ball would move to the intended player from the tip-off and with snappy passing and accurate shooting, another field goal was registered.

Captain Dohms registered in field goals, shooting baskets in mid-season form and established a high scoring record for a girl player at P. H. S. The locals took a number of chances on long shots and made the majority of them good, although at times there were openings for the ball to have been worked to the basket. The Red and Blue lassies showed real pep all the way and had the Russell girls on the defense all the way.

During the first period Russell only had one chance at a shot and they made it, one long shot. In the second period they had one more chance, a free throw and made it, this ending their scoring for the first half. P. H. S. scored 14 in the first quarter and 33 to 21. The visitors were leading in the second half. Coach Charlotte Bell sent an entire team on to the floor at the start of the fourth quarter and the second team held the visitors safe, although the playing was closer. The locals had several chances at the basket but failed to make the shots good.

Emerson Marting of Ashland re forced the game and kept the players on their toes fighting all the time. The lineup and summary: P. H. S. Russell, Dohms, LF, R. Campbell, Scott, LF, E. Justice, Taylor, LF, E. Dyer, Stewart, RG, Washington, Shields, LG, R. Fowler. Field Goals—Dohms 10, Scott 5, Taylor 3, Shields 1, E. Dyer 1. Free Throws—Dohms 3, Taylor 1, Subbs—H. Stewart for Dohms, Cissna for Scott, Bradshaw for Taylor, DeVoss for Stewart, Duduit for Shields, Burton for Fowler, Fowler for Washington, Reece for Burton, Dazelnach for Reece, Burton for Campbell.

The committee's recommendations will be sent to the Governor at once, in condemning the Grafton site, the committee suggested that it be used temporarily as a dairy farm, and recommended that additional lands adjoining the Cleveland state hospital for the insane at Hawthornden be purchased.

INVESTORS TO LOSE
RECEIVERS REPORT
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20.—The first report of the receivers of the Ohio Industrial Endowment Company completed today, shows assets of $509,963.77, and liabilities of $625,714. The receivers, Howard Clarke, and John P. Maloney, said stockholders and investors stand to lose the greater part of their investments. Among the assets is included $435,750.20 scheduled on loans. The receivers said that these loans are of doubtful value and that the most that will be realized from them is between $125,000 and $150,000.

The receivers' report sets forth that during the four years the company operated it received approximately $1,000,000 from a total of 5,400 investors.

CROSS WORD PUZZLES
EASY IN COMPARISON WITH THIS PROBLEM
TOLEDO, O., Dec. 20.—It is an inconsiderate bigamist who will thoughtlessly die and leave two healthy wives and only one life insurance policy. Federal Judge John M. Killits has been asked to decide which of the two wives shall receive the insurance in a case of this kind. Both wives claim the money, which amounts to $1,000 and the insurance company has admitted its inability to solve the puzzle. The controversy started with the death of Willard A. Ward in Toledo in June, 1923. Mrs. Julia G. Ward, of Toledo, thinking herself the only widow entitled for the money due on the policy. She had been married to Ward since 1900, she testified today. Mrs. Mary L. Ward jumped things up through by applying for the money on the grounds that Willard married her in Bar Abx, Mich., in 1899. More than that Mrs. Ward No. 1 pointed to two children, Gerard and Fern, as proof of her contention.

Still Are Uncovered; Five Arrests Are Made
VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 20.—(Special to Times)—Activities of state prohibition officer W. A. Burchett, Sheriff P. L. Lykins and Deputy Sheriff G. P. Paddock near Vernon about thirty miles south of Vancouver yesterday resulted in the arrest of five men, alleged distillers, and the confiscation of 540 gallons of beer and 15 gallons of whiskey.

Three separate raids were staged, the first resulting in the arrest of Frank and Robert Logan and the confiscation of 540 gallons of beer and 15 gallons of whiskey.

The second raid of the officers to the neighborhood netted 40 gallons of beer, 10 gallons of whiskey and the arrest of John Lee and Austin Dyer.

In the final raid of the day four stills were confiscated. The men were brought to the county jail at Vancouver.

ABE MARTIN On Winter Etiquette

WELL INTENTIONED, MAYBE, BUT TH' ACME O' ILL BREEDIN'

"Now that we've bid goodbye to garden parties, lily ponds, moon-heeding int' the winter's social season, a word or two about indoor social etiquette won't be amiss," writes Miss Fawn Lippincott.

"It's th' rankest violation of established social ethics to ask a hostess where she borrowed a punch bowl."

"A man who aspires to be a gentleman must never borrow a cigarette from a lady."

"Money borrowed from a host or hostess, without security, is tide o'er an evenin' should be returned before 10 a. m. th' next mornin'."

"It reflects neglected breedin' to tell how much your dinner suit set you back."

"Never quote or refer to prominent people like you drilled with 'em."

"Don't say much o' anything is th' best rule."

"Never urge a gentleman or lady to drink. His or her stomach may be off, or either might possibly be opposed to 'drinkin', which is th' inalienable right."

"At luncheons never guarantee or give as your opinion, that this or that (metworse for instance) won't distress a lady or gentleman. They know th'ir stomachs best."

"Where all but one of a party get a start at th' same time, it is not proper to urge drinks too fast on th' belated guest."

"In bribin' an orchestra leader never display more than enough money to answer th' purpose."

"Never tell how your wife cooks this or that."

"In closeup, or Chicago, house-dancin' allus look around before backin' from one room to another."

"A born gentleman avoids tooth-picks an' clears his throat on th' verandah."

"No thoroughbred gentleman or lady'll ask a host or hostess where they got it. If you are supplied, which is your right, wait thirty or forty minutes after you've seen some other guest drink from th' same shaker."

"All married couples should wait until they're safely within th'ir own boudoir before they try to settle th'ir differences. A true lady or gentleman remains at home with a grouch same as if they had pneumonia."

"In standin' up when a lady joins you don't try to stamp your trousers down."

"A perfect gentleman'll never lengthen or shorten a suspender in polite society."

"Never drum on th' card table."

"One advantage o' perfect polit' is that others can't find out wh' your necks what you're thinkin' about."

A Hint for Beginners
The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of connecting words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

VII—PROTECTING PAMELA

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Corrigan, proprietor of the Grand Palace, in the Wilhelmette court, his first assistant, took with disfavor upon their unscrupulous neighbor, Arundell.

Fellowes has put up a new bungalow which attracts the eyes of Pamela Verker, sister of Jack Verker, who is a business associate of Arundell. Miss Verker tells Fellowes what an utter rotter Arundell is, how he is plotting the death of her brother Jack, and how he constantly pursues her with promises of marriage. When Jack Verker is called away on business for Arundell, Pamela comes under the protection of Fellowes. Pamela tells Fellowes that two shots fired in the air will be a signal that she is in danger. Now Pamela tells Fellowes that Arundell is prowling around her house the night before.

"She dropped him with a single shot, you say? Might be good for a girl!" "She's been practicing for weeks."

"I see. What d'you propose doing about it?"

Arundell began talking rapidly in a low voice, a voice that was distinctly audible, however, in every corner of the room.

"It's a rotten business altogether—and all things considered, it would probably be better to have the whole affair up. It's not the first time a man's committed suicide in these waters—and there's no reason why the true circumstances should get beyond us three. After all, it was the purest accident."

Corrigan frowned. The sole of the girl on the bed tapped at his heart strings.

"Can't you find her some brandy or something?" he demanded. "Tidy up the place a bit, get this poor chap into another room and send her a woman."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Fellowes bit his lip.

"I wonder what his game is?" he said presently.

She stared at him in blank amazement.

"Game?"

"There's a lot more in this than meets the eye. Arundell's desperate, but I fancy he knows how to wait his opportunity. Doesn't it occur to you this suspicion of persistent annoyance might be arranged to precipitate a quarrel between your brother and himself?"

"Mr. Fellowes, do you really think this?"

"I consider it quite possible."

She dropped her head to the floor at her side and passed a weary hand through her curls.

"I've been thinking. I've been wondering whether we wouldn't be justified in running away altogether—now, as soon as ever Jack comes back. There's the bestly old contract, I know, but the firm has treated him shamelessly—and they surely wouldn't expect a man to go about with his life in his hands and..."

Fellowes heart sank. He didn't want to think of Pamela going away, but the wisdom of the move appealed to him.

"I understand," he broke in. "We'll both tackle him. I'm with you—all the way. It's not worth it. If they want one to keep their contracts they should not send out fellows like Arundell to look it over for us."

She stared into his eyes for fully a minute, then rose to her feet and crossed to the rail. There was a suggestion of purriness and freshness about this early morning tropic landscape that brought a lump to her throat.

"I don't know where we shall go," she murmured huskily, "but I shall never forget all you have done. You've been wonderful!"

He came to her side.

"I haven't had a chance of doing half I would have liked to. Why didn't you give the signal last night?"

"I didn't want to trouble you. You were nothing very desperate happened. I was to send for you every time I was frightened—you'd never sleep at all."

He caught both her shoulder and made her face him.

"Look here," he said sternly, "I'm not going to have you taking risks. If anything happens tonight—or any other night, you're to fire those two shots. Do you understand?"

She nodded and moved away from him as a turbid watchman approached with some papers.

It so happened that Corrigan spent that evening with Fellowes and, for once in a while, the first assistant presided upon him to stop the night. It was toward midnight that the planter called from the hall to Fellowes, who was wending the gramophone while it was still playing.

"Say, Fellowes, things are getting a bit livelier across the way, aren't they?"

"What's that?" He stopped the instrument.

"Someone's firing up there."

Fellowes made a wild grab at his hat.

"Firing? I didn't hear anything. What was it—a single shot?"

"Oh, a couple—one after the other. I wouldn't swear to it, but I fancy the second was louder."

"Did you mind waiting here—till I come back?"

"I do! I'm coming with you. What's in the wind?"

On their way up the opposite slope Fellowes enlightened him.

As they approached the house the sound of a wild, hysterical sobbing broke upon their ears. The first assistant, with Corrigan at his heels, tore over the intervening ground, plunging finally across the veranda and down a narrow passage where the light from an open doorway cast a bright yellow rectangle into the darkness.

On the threshold Fellowes recoiled in horror. Face downward on the floor, arms spread wide apart, lay Jack Verker. His legs were doubled awkwardly under him and a thin stream of blood trickled from him into a crack between the boards. Pamela sat on a bed at the far end of the apartment, her face buried in her hands, the tiny automatic she had shown Fellowes in her lap.

A tall man who was standing over the prostrate form, jerked up his head as they entered. It occurred to Fellowes that Arundell had not expected this intrusion.

"Mr. Corrigan," said the planter, by way of explanation. "We heard the shot from our side."

The other started visibly.

"Shots? There was only one shot, as far as I know. Miss Verker fired it—yes, I'm afraid, with distinctly tragic effect. It's an exceedingly unfortunate accident to a piece of feminine obstinacy. She insisted on stopping here alone while her brother was away. The east's a very devil for some women. She looked herself up into a bad state of nerves. It appears that Miss Verker was haunted by a notion people were looking around the house, trying to get to Verker. Foolishly she gave her a pistol and there's the result!"

The first assistant had dropped on to one knee and was passing his hands over Verker's tunic. Corrigan, his arms outstretched, threw a rapid glance round the room.

"I'm Corrigan," said the planter, by way of explanation. "We heard the shot from our side."

The other started visibly.

TEACHER SAYS GEORGE'S

FAREWELL ADDRESS NOT FAST ENOUGH TODAY

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20.—Some of the principles enunciated in Washington's farewell address are as far removed from present day life as the toll gate and the stage coach are from the automobile. Such was the assertion today of Dean J. E. Hargerty, of the college of commerce and journalism, Ohio State University, in addressing the class of 125 who received degrees at the autumn convocation.

HAND PRISON TERMS

TO FORMER BANKERS

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 20.—Five former officers of the Representative Realty company—Municipal Savings and Loan company enterprises, convicted at different trials of charges growing out of the collapse of those concerns, were sentenced to serve from one year to five years in the Ohio penitentiary today.

Sol Vestkind, master-mind of the enterprise, and Ben Karp, his right-hand man, received the heaviest sentences, jointly convicted in three trials, they were sentenced to five years on charges of misapplication of $241,000 in Municipal mortgages, five years on charges of misapplying $27,000 in mortgages, and three years on a charge of publishing a false financial statement. Judge Newcomer, however, ordered that the sentences will be served concurrently, cutting the maximum to five years.

DAMAGE SUITS FILED

AS RESULT OF RIOTS

WARREN, O., Dec. 20.—Alleging here November 3 between members of the Ku Klux Klan and anti-Klan men, Russell Brock, of Warren, and Ralph Games, of Niles, today filed damage suits against Trumbull county commissioners. Each seek $1,000. The suits were filed under the state's statutes which holds a county responsible for mob violence. They claim that civil law collapsed in Niles on November 1, and the city was ruled by mobs.

Brock alleges in his petition that while driving his automobile in the downtown section of Niles on that date he was ordered from the car by ten or twelve men and beaten on the head with a revolver by one of the group.

Games declares that he and Brock were en route to their homes when they were stopped. Games alleges that he also was ordered from the car and beaten, and that as they were driving off, the pair were fired upon by members of the mob.

SUIT CONTINUED

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20.—The appeal of former Mayor C. C. Curtis of Canton, from the order of Governor Denney removing him as Mayor for non-enforcement of the state prohibition laws, which had been set for hearing in the State Supreme Court today, has been continued until the next term of court, it was announced at the clerk's office today. The new term begins in January. No definite date has been set.

"HIGH STEPPER" SENT

TO WOMEN'S PRISON

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 20.—Helen Murray, who says she was formerly a Felles girl, was taken to Marysville, Ohio, a factory for women today. She received an indefinite sentence from Judge George Baer for passing a worthless check for $25 here.

"That's a good place for high steppers," Judge Baer said in passing sentence.

OFFER CHLORINE GAS

AS COLD TREATMENT

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 20.—The chlorine gas treatment for colds tried out by President Coolidge recently, will be offered to the public here by army physicians at $1 a treatment, Col. L. S. Connolly announced today.

The patients will sit for an hour in a sealed chamber and inhale chlorine gas. Major N. H. McNery will have charge of the treatments, Connolly said.

STOCK PRICES MADE EXCELLENT GAINS DURING THE PAST WEEK'S HEAVY VOLUME OF TRADING

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Stock prices continued to hold this week on an enormous volume of trading, the industrial average being lifted to the highest point since the peak of the post-war boom in 1919 and the railroad average attaining the highest level since 1917. Total sales averaged near 2,000,000 shares daily.

While the most sensational movements took place in the volatile specialties, many of which are under pool control, chief speculative interest centered in the eastern and southern railroad shares, which were bid up to new high levels on report of the rapid progress being made in the development of merger plans. Eastern coalers were especially active with Lehigh Valley, Baltimore and Ohio, Lackawanna, the Reading issues and Jersey Central smashing their previous high records, the last-named making a spectacular advance of forty points in two days.

Buying in the general list was influenced by a variety of factors including the easing of call money rates, reports of expanding steel operations and huge equipment orders, a series of favorable dividend developments, prompt oversubscription of the Belgian and Greek loans, continuation of record car loadings, rising commodity prices and publication of an interview with Secretary Mellon quoting him as saying that he saw no danger in the recent strength and activity of stock prices.

United States Steel common crossed 119 to the best price since 1917 and most of the other standard industrials recorded substantial gains. American Can being run up eight points in a few minutes on Thursday afternoon. Trading of the markets was heavy and the volume of trading reflected the more cheerful feeling regarding next year's outlook in oil circles. Copers made only a feeble response to the establishment of a new high price by the red metal. Chemicals, rubbers, sugars, textiles and leathers all developed points of strength in anticipation of better business next year.

RAILS HEAD STOCK PRICES IN NEW ADVANCE

PROFIT TAKING AND BEAR SALES FAIL TO HALT ADVANCE OF STOCK PRICES

Total stock sales, 955,700.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Heavy profit taking and bear selling of a few special issues imparted some irregularity to price movements in today's stock market but the main trend was still upward. Buying was influenced by rising commodity prices and the favorable tenor of the weekly mercantile reviews. American Foreign Power issues were actively bought, each rising six points. Philadelphia and Reading coal and iron were heavily accumulated on reports, later of financial panic, that the First National Bank had acquired the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's "rights" in that stock, rising 3 1/2 points. American Locomotive, Pullman, Atlantic Coast Line and Gulf Mobile and Northern preferred sold 3 or more points higher. The closing was firm. Sales approximated 750,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Stock prices resumed their upward movement in today's market under the leadership of the railroad equipment shares. Pullman advanced 2 1/2 points or more also were recorded by American Foreign Power certificates (25 per cent paid); Shulte Stores, Atlantic Coast Line, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Studebaker touched new 1924 highs.

Public Utilities Head Curb Market

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Public utilities assumed prominence in the combined stock trading on the curb exchange today. New high records were made in numerous issues, notably Commonwealth Power and American Gas and Electric both of which scored advances of more than 2 points in the opening period.

Radio shares were easier, being influenced to some extent by the reaction in DuPont Condenser, which sustained a further loss of about a point from Friday's close.
